If you do not have access to an LCD projector, you can print selected PowerPoint slides onto transparencies and present them during the training using an overhead projector. If an overhead projector is not available, or if electrical supply is a problem during the training period, the PowerPoint files can be printed onto paper, duplicated, and passed out to the providers before the session. Alternatively, you can transcribe important information from the PowerPoint slides onto pieces of flipchart paper and display these at relevant points during the training.
